Hi, I'm Mrs. Stiffler!

After an anti-climactic end to the 2019-20 school year, I am ready to jump into the 2020-21 year while seeing my students' faces (well, partially). This marks my 21st year of teaching, following a three-year "career" as a newspaper reporter. I have taught everything from journalism, to Short Story, to Sci-Fi and am excited to be teaching Drama as Literature and H2BE this year.

My husband and I live with our three cats in the country near West Branch State Park, prime territory for hiking and biking. Home lockdown last spring allowed me time to grow a robust vegetable garden and plant a new flower garden to attract pollinators. Aside from reading, singing, and traveling, my biggest loves are backpacking and camping, especially in the Southwest. After the school day ends, my side hustle as a fitness instructor allows me to work with people to help reach their personal goals. Don't be surprised if we sneak some yoga or planks into class for mental well being!

I look forward to getting to know you and learning with you this year!

COVID protocols

Mrs. Stiffler's classroom is stocked with hand sanitizer, but feel free to bring your own. Sanitize often.

Custodians provide Purell spray for all classroom surfaces.

Desks are thoughtfully arranged to allow at least 6 feet of distance between students.

Students will remain in the same assigned seats until further notice to maintain social distancing. Seating assignments attempt to limit the number of students who sit at the same desk throughout the day.

Students and teachers are to wear masks at all times.

GO BACK

The school year is beginning in hybrid mode.

Familiarize yourself with the schedule for that model, but be aware that we could switch to all remote. This represents a typical week, excluding the first two weeks of the school year.

On “home” days, students will be required to attend their classes on time via Zoom. To be counted present, they must be visible on video.

Mrs. Stiffler is planning fun, interactive activities to keep the virtual students as involved as possible, including interactive presentations requiring them to be actively participate in both group and individual activities.

Virtual participants might be dismissed partway through class to work independently. Those students are expected to use the remaining time to complete their assignment.
